

Extract from Res. No. 2/2020 of the Conciliation Committee

Budapest, May 27, 2020

The amount of dividend paid by Graphisoft Park SE (HUF 1,060), surpassed 10% of the average price of the company's shares on the last trading day before the ex-date (May 27, 2020), i.e. HUF 4662.41.

Upon authorization by Section 33.1 of Book Five (Trading Regulations) of The General Terms of Service of the Budapest Stock Exchange Ltd., the Conciliation Committee passes the following decision on the Graphisoft Park SE futures equity contract.

On May 27, 2020, the Conciliation Committee determined the so-called ex-settlement price for all the maturities of the Graphisoft Park SE futures equity contract. The value serving as the basis for correction was set considering that the dividend of HUF 1,060 exceeded 10% of the average price by HUF 593.759, which is rounded to comply with the tick value of the Graphisoft Park SE futures contract to HUF 594.

Ex-settlement prices for all maturities of the Graphisoft Park SE futures equity contract are calculated by subtracting HUF 594 from the corresponding settlement prices generated on May 27, 2020.

Furthermore, the Conciliation Committee decides that on May 27, 2020, after the close of trading, open positions for all maturities of the Graphisoft Park SE futures equity contract are settled on the original end-of-day settlement prices. Then, going forward, the positions are entered into the records on the determined ex-settlement prices, without settling the price difference; these ex-settlement prices will serve as the basis of settlement on the next trading day.

The Conciliation Committee also decides that the ex-date (May, 28, 2020) base price for each maturity of the Graphisoft Park SE futures equity contract should be modified so that they will be equal to the value of the corresponding ex-settlement price.
